Challenger Model 6 FC

Model 10 M

This 10 channel unit is manually controlled. Accurate static testing of aircraft and missile components is its principal function. Interchangeable valve assemblies for 1,000, 2,500, 5,000, 7,500 and 10,000 PSI are available for this unit. (Model 6M has only 6 pressure channels.)

Challenger Models 6FC and 10FC—multiple pressure hydraulic load maintainers and cycling units for accurate static and fatigue testing of aircraft and missile components. For static testing, a single manual control enables the operator to vary the outlet pressures simultaneously from zero to 100% of the preset maximum pressures.

Kitty Hawk, the past.

THE LOCKHEED 1026 Currently in design study, it is entirely computer controlled and winged helicopter will employ Lockheed's HgJ turbofan engine, the greatest advance in aviation since the jet engine.

THE SR-71 Currently in service with the Strategic Air Command of the U.S. Air Force, the SR-71 is the world's first operational Mach 3 aircraft.

THE AH-56A CHEYENNE Ordered into production by the U.S. Army in 1968, this HgJ turbofan engine is the first helicopter designed as an integrated weapons system.

THE P-3C ORION The latest in Lockheed's series of advanced, high-speed, high-altitude aircraft, the P-3C Orion is scheduled for delivery to the U.S. Navy in 1969.

THE LOCKHEED 1011 Recently the object of the largest airline order in history, this 300-passenger giant will set new standards of comfort in air travel. Initial delivery is scheduled for 1971.

San Fernando and Antelope Valleys, the future.

On December 17, 1903, on a grassy field at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, the Wright Brothers changed the world. Their fragile 12-horsepower biplane lurched and skittered across that field, gained momentum, and was airborne. For the first time, man was aloft in a maneuverable powered vehicle. By implication, the world became much smaller; mankind lost the easy provincialism of immobility.

More than six decades have passed. The scene has shifted to Southern California: Burbank, Van Nuys, Palmdale, and Rye Canyon. Instead of the two Wright Brothers, some 22,000 highly skilled people are at work. But the task is the same: extending the frontiers of flight.
